Employee Spotlight - Wes Penny

Starting as a contracted employee in 2003, Wes Penny went full time with Airways in August of 2012 working in our I.T. department as an AS400 Programmer and Administrator. His main job is to create and change programs to help his fellow employees do their jobs better, faster, accurately, and more efficiently. He says that he would rather create a program based on what they want, than what he thinks they need.

Keeping you in the know

As an experienced expedited carrier, our expertise comes to the forefront with the ongoing Covid-19 situation. Airways is assisting in the distribution of shipments of emergency shipments to facilities for their COVID-19 response protocol. Just one example how we're working 24/7 to make sure all your critical shipping needs are met.

Our extensive services continue to be showcased, we are actively moving shipments of hand sanitizers, as well as other cleaning solutions and sanitation products, throughout the nation. Just another example of how Airways is delivering performance.

Aerospace and Aeronautics

During the month of July while we are already looking to the skies at Airways Freight to celebrate the 4th, we want to highlight our Aerospace Division lead by JR Hampton.

Thanks to several hard-working agents, we already work with some of the largest aerospace companies in the world and are well respected in this industry.

Final Thoughts...

As we move into the fifth month of the Coronavirus situation, we are happy to say our Airways family is safe and secure. Although our trade show business took an immediate and direct hit, our diversification has allowed us to continue to operate at a high level. Our domestic and international general services has assisted in many time-sensitive projects attached to Covid19. We also continue to work closely with our manufacturing companies to ensure their parts supplies and maintenance are productive and efficient.

While we will continue to be corporately challenged until the trade show industry is back up and running, our General Services, Nuclear Power & Public Utilities, Aerospace & Medical Services areas of the business continue to operate at a high level. We are prepared and staffed for a return to normalcy and look forward to a full trade show season in the near future. We cannot state enough how much we appreciate our employees, agents, vendors, and customers that put their confidence in Airways Freight every day and we are dedicated to continuing to always deliver performance and exceed expectations. - Denny Wood, President
